I Have an Animal in My Attic

Do not block access point until animal is safely out of attic. Place radio in attic and play loud talk radio - as loud as you can stand - 24 hours/day. Also put flashing lights (flashing large bulb Christmas lights or strobe lights work well) and leave lights on 24 hours/day. Animal will usually leave attic within 2-3 days. Do not block access the first time animal leaves since it may have babies and may need to make several trips to move all of the babies. Continue to leave radio playing and lights flashing for 24 hours after you've last heard the animal, then repair access point. If you cannot have the permanent repair done immediately, secure 1/2"x1/2" hardware cloth (available at the hardware store) over the opening until the permanent repair can be made.

Inspect roof, siding and soffits to determine access point. Do NOT block access point until animal is safely out of attic. Place radio in attic and play loud talk radio – as loud as you can stand - 24 hours/day. Also put flashing lights (flashing large bulb Christmas lights or strobe lights work well) and leave lights on 24 hours/day. Animal will usually leave attic within 2-3 days. Do not block access the first time animal leaves since it may have babies and may need to make several trips to move all of the babies. Continue to leave radio playing and lights flashing for 24 hours after you've last heard the animal, then repair access point. If you cannot have the permanent repair done immediately, secure 1/2"x1/2" hardware cloth (available at the hardware store) over the opening until the permanent repair can be made.